

Mahadev Desai

Mahatma's Publicist

Nachiketa Desai

Mahadev Desai

Mahatma's Publicist

Nachiketa Desai

Publisher: NotNul

Published On: August, 2022

© Nachiketa Desai

Table of Content

Acknowledgements	5
Discovering MD, the journalist	9
Mahadev Desai, a prodigy	20
Day-to-day with Gandhi	29
His Master's Apprentice	39
Pen is mightier than sword	53
Prisoner of War	64
Second in command	81
Byline MD	101
MD: Gandhiji's ideal Private Secretary	111
He made Gandhi most loved man	126
Journalists and journalism	134
Travelogues
Ceylon 1	168
Ceylon 2	179
A Creeper in Peradeniya	194
With Gandhiji in Burma	200
With Gandhiji in Burma	218
With Gandhiji in Burma	229
In the Frontier Province	237
Frontier Notes	244
Frontier Notes II	255
Frontier Notes IV	261

Banaras Hindu University	275
From S S Rajputana on way to London	281
British Postal Union	289
Personality Profiles
Bhansali: The recluse revolutionary	294
Charlie Chaplin Meets Gandhiji	310
Chiang Kai-shek meets Gandhiji	313
Is Religious Unity Possible?	328
Dr Ambedkar's story	332
Dr. Karel Hujer	336
The Late Dr. Rajabali	342
How Does Mr. Gandhi Live? India's Great Leader In His Village Home	345
Argument of Love	367
Jamnalal Bajaj	371
Hermann Kallenbach	393
The Late Munshi Premchand	416
Weekly Letter	418
C.P. Scott: A Veteran Journalist	423
Towards an ideal Zamindari	426
Father Elwyn	447
A feast for the eyes	456
When Ahimsa won him a friend	458
The Cry of the Poor	461

Political Reports

How India's Industry Was Ruined	470
The Situation in Bardoli	493
Bardoli declares Satyagraha	498
What is the Bardoli Case	503
The Meaning of Bardoli	508
Aimless at Round Table Conference	512
A Historical Retrospect	518
With Sardar Patel in Tamilnad	533
Mr. Moore Runs Amuck	552
Harijan: An Internal Crisis	562
The Issue in Nagpur	567
The Silver Lining	572
Draconian Orders	587
British and American Nazism	592
British India and World War- II	595

Acknowledgements

I could not have undertaken my research on Mahadevbhai Desai's contribution to journalism as long as I worked full-time for the fortnightly Business India. An opportunity came my way when, on hearing about my desire to work on my grandfather, Bhanwarlal Jain, the chairman of the Jalgaon-based Jain Irrigation Systems Limited, offered me a one-year fellowship of the Gandhi Research Foundation of which he is the founder.

I sought a one-year sabbatical from Business India to pursue my research. Publisher Ashok Advani granted me the leave with kind words of encouragement and good wishes. I am grateful to both Ashok Advani and Bhanwarlal Jain for their support to my dream project.

My father Narayan Desai was extremely happy with my decision to take up the research and gave me his blessings for the success of the project. Though he was very busy delivering his series of Gandhi Kathas throughout the country and abroad and working on his book on Gandhiji and Partition, he agreed to be my guide.

My friend Dr Sudarshan Iyengar, vice-chancellor of Gujarat Vidyapith, offered me an honorary fellowship of the journalism department, and thus gave me access to the university's rich library.

Dr. Mahesh Rangarajan, director of the National Nehru Museum and Library, Delhi, made it possible for me to access the library's archives. I am